

PETER TAYLOR

Peter Taylor became a consultant and researcher in community development and regeneration after long experience in social research and local government in the West of Scotland. His principal responsibilities now are co-ordinating two networks: Community Development Alliance Scotland (CDAS), a forum for Scottish organisations supporting community development; and Community Learning and Development Managers Scotland (CLDMS), for the managers of community development, adult learning and youth work services in Scotland's local authorities."