

Ray Briscoe

Ray Briscoe currently holds the role of Deputy Chief Prosecutor working in the Directing Division, of the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions. Ray qualified as a solicitor in England, working for a number of years as a criminal defence practitioner in the United Kingdom, including representing clients as part of the Duty Solicitor Scheme. Ray joined the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions in 2001 and has enjoyed working in the Superior Courts Section, the International Section and prior to his current position, Ray was Head of the District Court Section. He has worked in this jurisdiction and abroad, undertaking criminal litigation from the differing perspectives of being both a defence / prosecution solicitor. Ray has enjoyed working as a tutor / lecturer with the Law Society from 2004, assuming the role of Chief Internal Legal Examiner with the Law Society from 2014, onwards. He has delivered a number of different legal papers in Ireland and the EU. He has a particular aptitude in the following legal areas; extradition law, international legal co-operation and combatting domestic violence